

“Ragged Bones” - written and performed by Chad Price

I won't see your face in so many moons,
You left a week and a day too soon,
Me and the ghosts and my ragged bones,
Can't burn down this bridge,
We built it with stone,

Look what we made,
It's lovely by day,
But when the night falls it all fades away,
Into the black,
Bring it all back,
Out from the shadows that fill in the cracks,

I'll start the fire when you win the war,
I'll sit and watch it burn like you did before,
I'll call you my friend in the event that I have to start all over again,

Maybe it meant more to me,
You make it look so damn easy,
I'm here just trying to breath,
Taking potions to keep me from feeling,
Well maybe it meant more to me,
You make it look so damn easy,
I'm here just trying to breath,
Drinking potions to keep me from feeling,

I'll call you my friend in the event that I have to start all over again,
Now me and the ghosts and my ragged bones,
Can't burn down this bridge,
We built it with stone,
